OUR MOTTO: KEEP IN TOUCH

THAT'S WHAT MOSE WAS STEALING

A guard on duty at the gate of a Marine base became suspicious of Mose.

At quitting time every day, Mose, a civilian employee, came up to the gate rolling a wheelbarrow full of sawdust. The guard each time unlocked the gate and allowed Mose to pass through.

But the guard became convinced Mose was stealing something from the base. So he began poking through the load of sawdust every day with his bayonet.

Finding nothing that way, the guard decided to empty the sawdust. He would dump it out, spread it on the ground and sift through it. Not a trace of anything.

So the guard went to the base commander.

"Mose," he said, "is leaving here every day with a barrow load of sawdust, and I just know he's stealing something. But I can't find anything in the stuff."

After they'd discussed it some, the commanding officer ordered:

"You tell Mose that I said we know he's stealing something. But you tell him he's outsmarted us and that if he'll just tell what it is, I won't take any action against him."

So the next afternoon, the guard put it to Mose.

"I'll tell you if you promise not to tell nobody but the Kunn'l," Mose said. The guard agreed.

"Well," said Mose, "I'm stealin' wheelbarrows."

People can be placed in three classes— (1) the few who make things happen; (2) the many who watch things happen; and (3) the overwhelming majority who have no idea what has happened. Now—WHAT CLASS ARE YOU IN?

SEEMS THE HARDER I WORK THE LUCKIER I GET.
